Hollywood icon Harvey Weinstein — who as the head of a major studio had a strong influence on network programming, including NBC's "Saturday Night Live" — was fired from his namesake company on Thursday. As Variety first reported, he had reached settlements with four women who filed sexual-misconduct lawsuits against him, and launched a $50 million defamation suit against The New York Times. At least three women were among seven new accusations made public in The Hollywood Reporter. One of them is Tarale Wiggs, who worked for Weinstein at the William Morris Agency from 2001 to 2007, when she says Weinstein physically forced her into performing oral sex on him at his Century City office. But after reporting the abuse to Weinstein's assistant, Wiggs says the mogul's circle of defense attorneys called her and urged her not to go public. When she refused, they reportedly retaliated by ruining her career. The Reporter's story makes numerous claims about Weinstein's alleged misconduct toward other women, including suggestions that he successfully obtained "insurance policies" for the women whose allegations were made public. And today in The Hollywood Reporter, a woman with the pseudonym "Rose McGowan" — who worked as an assistant on various Weinstein productions — leveled new allegations of her own. Along with Wiggs, the so-called "Harvey Five" includes Ashley Judd, Mira Sorvino, Katherine Kendall and a third anonymous accuser. The "Rose McGowan" allegations are laid out in seven pages, and include the following: - During the 1990s, while directing a movie with Weinstein, he repeatedly demanded nude massages from her. - During their time together, Weinstein made it clear that he wanted her to sleep with someone else as part of a creative process. - At a hotel, Weinstein corralled the woman, forced her to perform oral sex on him, then ordered her to get dressed and leave

Suppose that $\alpha, \beta: X \rightarrow \{0, 1\}$ are continuous functions. Is there a categorical argument for the following proposition: If α in $\alpha(X)$, then β in $\beta(X)$. where 'categorical' here refers to the properties of the category of topological spaces and continuous functions. A: It follows from the following observation: If X is a topological space and Y is a closed subspace, then the only continuous maps $X \rightarrow Y$ are the ones which restricted on $X \setminus Y$ coincide with the identity map on X

Tag: lake Tomorrow I am heading back to the condo in Bastrop, Texas, where I will work from a comfortable office with a view of the sunset. During the next few days I expect to be working on a few additional articles, as well as assembling my August issue of the magazine. I will be really happy to be back in the field and up close to a lot of wonderful art. I'll post updates as they occur, but in the meantime I am leaving you with two new images taken of lakes I have been enjoying along the way. The one on the left is a little bit of a tease; I shot it from the shore of a small lake in the San Jacinto Mountains, north of San Antonio. It's a little hard to see the detail in this photo, as the sun is falling pretty fast at that time of day. The right image, also from the San Jacinto Mountains, shows a different view of the sunset at the edge of a beautiful lake. It's a pretty small lake, and I was able to make it out into the far distance by standing behind the lake's retaining wall. I think I'll be spending the rest of the day wrapping up my work on the magazine, so I'll leave you with those thoughts. With Spring around the corner, the weather
